People have many identities or “distinguishing characteristics” such as a “person with a disability,” “Native Hawaiian,” or “gay/lesbian.” Some people may identify with one characteristic more than another.

The “Cultural Identity Bubble Map” is an example of an Identity Map.
The map places the person in the bubble at the center, with bubbles listing various aspects of identity radiating to the center.